

The Cayman Islands Foundation Company

The Cayman Islands Foundation Company is a unique structuring option in the Cayman Islands used for wealth planning, as well as holding vehicles and special purpose vehicles for commercial transactions and cryptocurrency offerings.

Though the Foundation Company may be used as an alternative to a Cayman trust, a number of features specific to Cayman's trust law have also been wrapped up into the Foundation Company vehicle, which should prove beneficial to investors and private clients.

Foundation companies may be an attractive alternative to trusts, particularly for those in civil-law jurisdictions, where there are concerns about the tax treatment of trusts. Clients from common-law jurisdictions may also be attracted to a Foundation Company for holding higher-risk assets, such as shares in family businesses.

The combination of traditional and innovative features of a Foundation Company means that the Cayman Islands has introduced a flexible vehicle that is a valuable addition to all sectors of the financial services industry.

5 things to know about Foundation Companies

A Foundation Company has a separate legal personality and will transact with third parties in its own right, rather than through its trustee were it a trust

Foundation Companies benefit from the Cayman Islands' substantial company case-law history and the 'firewall' feature of the Cayman Islands' trust legislation, providing certainty as to how the courts will treat disputes

In contrast to a trust, duties are owed only to the Foundation Company itself as opposed to beneficiaries, and rights can be enforced against only the company and not the directors

A Foundation Company is not required to have any members at all, if permitted by its memorandum and provided that the company has a supervisor with the right to attend and vote at general meetings

A Foundation Company whose objects are to be carried out mainly outside the Cayman Islands may be incorporated as an exempted company, and not subject to any income, withholding or capital gains taxes in the Cayman Islands
